From Minus 2 third belay, climb the nice dihedral on the right. 35 meters, thin ice (10 to 5 centimeters on first ascent), about 75°. Protection on one peg at the bottom (removed) and 2 or 3 friends. Good belay on a ledge on friends. Start right to climb some rocks then cross right (M4) to find another icy dihedral (75°). Belay on rock on the right. Climb left a thin iced wall (75°) then reach a narrow snowy ridge to make junction with North-East Butress. Scottish grade more or less VI, 6. The climbing is quite exposed.
